The image shows the exterior of a large, single-story building with a prominent gabled roof. The main body of the building is constructed from light-colored, rectangular stone blocks. The gable end is finished with a smooth, light-colored stucco. A dark brown door with a small window is centered on the ground floor, flanked by two windows. Above the door, the address "210 N. Main" is visible. The building is set against a clear blue sky. A black street lamp stands to the right of the building. The text "WHAT UNIQUE LOCAL STONE WAS USED TO BUILD THE HOLLY GYMNASIUM?" is overlaid in large, bold, blue capital letters across the center of the image.

A photograph of a rustic stone building, possibly a park restroom or utility structure. The building is constructed from irregular, multi-colored stones in shades of tan, brown, and grey. It features a central arched entrance and two windows on either side, each with three panes. The roof is made of dark wood. The building is set against a background of bare trees and a clear blue sky. A wooden fence is visible on the left side. The text "HOW DID NEW DEAL PROJECTS HELP DEVELOP LA JUNTA CITY PARK?" is overlaid in white, bold, sans-serif font across the top half of the image.
